

THOUGHT COLD WOULD TURN INTO CONSUMPTION

HEART DID NOT FEEL ANY TOO GOOD.

Mr. Robert McLarson, Shawville, Que., writes: "I had with a bad cold and a bottle of your valuable medicine, I was up in the lumber camps teeming horses, and caught a very bad cold. I thought it would turn into consumption, for my left lung got very sore and my heart did not feel any too good. I came home and tried different remedies but they did me no good. A friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I tried it, and when I had taken it for a week I was well. I think it is a great remedy, and will advise any one with a cold to use it. I can't praise it enough."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains the long healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, which combined with Wild Cherry bark and other pectoral remedies, make the most popular and known preparations for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

Put in a yellow wrapper, five pine trees the trade mark price 25 cents.

HUNDREDS OF MEN COMING TO CITY

CLOSING DOWN OF RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION CALLS FOR WINTER IS IN BLAST.

No less than 600 laborers from the construction camps west of the city, came into Edmonton on Saturday night on the regular trains from the west according to Louis Kon, G.T.P. immigration agent who is in Edmonton at present looking after the transportation of laborers needed for the winter work. The majority of them stayed in Edmonton to swell the already large numbers of unemployed now here.

The majority of employment agencies on the principle streets were thronged with applicants for work. A number of men were engaged to go into the city to find employment and stay. They will be shipped west tomorrow morning. A gang of about 50 men were sent by one local employment agency to work for the G.T.P. again for the main line of the road, east of the Glacier Bar bridge to the coal property of the Great West Coal Co.

It was found on their arrival at the scene of construction activity, however, that the frost was too deep for work to be done. The men and their wives were forced to return to the west. The frost had penetrated the ground so far that heavy plows with five or six teams attached to them could not penetrate it.

Belief from the crowded conditions in the city will be found with the next week or two when orders are placed for houses to go to the winter workers. This will be the first time the Saskatchewan river southwest of Edmonton, Gose to 1,000 men will be required in the lumber camps of the big mining companies. There will be no opening up the winter's work within the near future and all good bushmen will then have an opportunity to go.

Display of Central Alberta Development League at Chicago Prove

The exhibit of the Central Alberta Development League at the American Land and Immigration exposition, now being held in the Auditorium building in Chicago, is attracting widespread attention, according to a letter received by Secretary "sheaf" of the Central Alberta Development League, this morning from J. L. Porte, who has charge of the exhibit.

"The vegetables are unique and attractive, particularly the radishes, turnips and beets. People think they are wonderful," said Mr. Porte in his letter.

Various parts of the vegetable exhibit were furnished by farmers and market gardeners in the Edmonton district free of charge. E. W. Warner of Glencoe, J. C. McMillan of Edmonton, F. H. Herdert furnished mangolds, turnips, beets and parsnips. Knowes brothers, of Walker's Flats, contributed potatoes, and J. H. Cadogan of Gordon Lodge, celery and red cabbage.

VAST COAL FEAS ARE WAITING DEVELOPMENT

There are enormous areas of very high anthracite coal in the development along the upper Peace river in Northern British Columbia, according to R. K. Rossiter, B. Sc., come to Edmonton on Saturday from the Peace river after spending the summer on the river, a party of J. H. Gray and Hilman, who are the owners of coal lands for a private company with headquarters in the coast cities.

"From the point where the Parsnip and Peace rivers join, together forming the Peace river, said Rossiter, at the Yale hotel this morning, "to Dunveen on the Peace river plains, there are areas of coal to be had for the taking. In the Peace river area the streams are formed of coal. We staked an area of 50 miles in extent for private Vancouver companies."

EDMONTON'S DIFFICULTIES
AND THE COMMISSION SYSTEM

That an escape from the administrative difficulties which beset the city of Edmonton is most likely to be found in the commission form of government and that it cannot be found in any revamping or improving of the present council system is made very plain by the criticisms of Alderman Thomas Bellamy just at the present time.

In fact, coming so opportunely at this juncture, Alderman Bellamy could not have done the city a greater service than he has done in bringing to light through his criticism the frailties of the present system.

Alderman Bellamy says, in short, that the engineer's department is not properly organized; that it lacks a managerial business head; that it is not properly departmentalized; that the engineer, who is nominally at the head of the department, is too much occupied with detail work and that he therefore has not the time and opportunity to look after his sub in the way for the city the best results.

Commissioner Candy suggests that if the engineer were placed in entire charge of the city's utilities and construction and were asked to fill what is practically the office of overseer, leaving his present duties in other hands but watching from a managerial point of view to see that they are attended to, he would have a better chance to serve the city, and the city would be better served.

Alderman Bellamy calls upon the engineer for a report on the work now in hand under the charge of the city engineering department. The city engineer addresses his answer to the commissioners, pointing out that, according to the charter, it is to the commissioners and not to the council that he is answerable for the performance of duties.

Alderman Gowen some three weeks ago applied the missing link in the chain of argument when he asked in council what was the use of being a councillor under the present system, anyway, seeing that the councillors have practically no authority to interfere with the work of any of the city's departments or control the manner in which the work is being done.

So here is the chain of circumstances under which the city is working: The engineer's department is overloaded but powerless to relieve itself through any action of its own. The engineer might see what is needed, but has no legislative, executive or administrative power and unless the suggestion comes from Commissioner Candy or some other member of the commission it cannot come at all. Alderman Bellamy or any other alderman may see it, but the very first time that Alderman Bellamy, who is an elected representative of the ratepayers, tries to get in touch with the engineer's department to rectify the difficulty he bumps fair up against the circumstance that so far as the engineer's department is concerned he as alderman has absolutely nothing to say; might be well, in fact, be out in the street. Commissioner Candy might see what is wanted, but Commissioner Candy is only in a second-hand sort of way in control of the engineer's department and he has no chance of placing his proposition or solution before the ratepayers except through the council, who may happen to have altogether divergent views from his. That is to say, if Commissioner Candy sought to make over the system under which the engineer's department is being handled he would first of all have to convince the engineer that his solution was the right one in order to have the engineer's hearty co-operation, and then he would have to convince the council or run the chance that the council, which the charter says cannot come into contact with the engineer's department, might disagree with him and discharge him as a result of the disagreement. Should the council so discharge the commissioner the commissioner has no power within the charter to appeal to the ratepayers for endorsement of his action, nor has any power to compel the members of the council to come before the ratepayers, who in all cases are the payees, and abide by their decision.

The whole thing is as plain as Pike's Peak. What Alderman Bellamy says is correct. What Commissioner Candy says is correct. And what Alderman Gowen says is correct. The trouble is that they are all correct in their survey of the situation, from different points of view. Were any one of them wrong the present difficulty would not exist.

When Alderman Bellamy says that the engineer's department is not properly organized, that it needs a proper managerial head, he states an obvious truism which he offers to prove by ocular demonstration on the Second street grade or anywhere else where two or three city workmen are gathered together.

When Commissioner Candy says that the engineer's department should be placed in absolute control of all branches of municipal activity dependent for their success on the engineer's department he says something which the simplest tyro in municipal affairs can understand at once.

And when Alderman Gowen intimates that the arrangement which elects city councillors and then places such an important branch as the city engineering department beyond their control is farcical he merely points out the disjointedness and absolute lack of connected responsibility which every councillor and mayor has discovered through experience since the first day the present system of government was applied.

The answer is that the man who is in control of the engineer's department should be in control of it all and should be answerable directly to the ratepayers. If the ratepayers discover that he is not competent or does not get results such as to satisfy them they should have the right to discharge him and put another man in his place.

KIRKPATRICK & PATE - EDMONTON AGENTS

This, in a nutshell, is commission government.

For instance: It is quite possible that under commission government in Edmonton Alderman Bellamy might be the gentleman to find favor with the ratepayers as the proper head of the department of public works. In this capacity he would have the power, should he see any errors in organization to rectify them, and should he fail to rectify them he would be responsible to the ratepayers who elect him and who pay his salary, in the event of failure the ratepayers would have the power to recall him.

Thus would there be established a direct connection between the ratepayers, who pay, and the men who, as Alderman Bellamy says, stand around the fire on the Second street grade.

Under the present system Alderman Bellamy might be able to take any number of ratepayers to the Second street grade and show them the men standing around the fire, but he could not for the life of him place his finger on the man who in the present scheme of municipal arrangement is directly responsible to the ratepayer for the fact that his taxes are being squandered by keeping this particular man on the payroll. If the ratepayer were to ask Alderman Bellamy who he should vote for or against in order to stop the waste he nor any other alderman would be unable to tell, for, as Alderman Gowen has discovered, and as the engineer has pointed out in his reply to Alderman Bellamy, the councillors, who are the only elective officers, do not control the engineer's department, or any other department of the city's activities.

What the ratepayers require is a system which gives them an opportunity to get directly at the particular individual who is personally answerable to them for any waste of the city's money. If they have this opportunity and fail to exercise it, that is their fault. But if they have not the opportunity, then the fault must lie with the system.

To reiterate, the ratepayer's opportunity to exercise a control over the expenditure of his own money will be found in the commission system. It is entirely lacking in the system under which Edmonton's affairs are administered at the present time.

THEATRICAL NEWS

AT THE EMPIRE

A well filled house greeted Professor Mental at the Empire theatre last night and all went well, except that from the opening to the end of the program. Mental opened his performance with thirty minutes of magic and his tricks are made distinctive by the clean and concise way in which they are performed. He picked tricks that were performed by Noah in the Ark, like twentieth century innovations. The scream of the whooping crane was the most popular act with which he terminated a scintillating demonstration of the psychic forces. Some twelve subjects were invited on the stage and "predicted" their past, present and future. He picked tricks that were performed by Noah in the Ark, like twentieth century innovations. Professor Mental is assisted in his performance by Miss Billie Davis in the dresses, from tiny到tiny, and the Hypnotizing, stunts, and Miss Dorothy De Vere sings a couple of enchanting songs. Mental's show is short, which is a good thing, and the audience always enjoys the show.

He appears again at the Empire tonight and tomorrow.

IS PRACTISING FURIOUSLY
FOR CONCERT TOUR

Despite the fact that he is considered a musical genius, Jack Johnson is pressing forward for his tour every day preparing for his coming tour of the United States and Canada. He will mark his farewell to this country with an appearance at the Empire theatre on November 22, and his concert should rouse his hearers to a pitch of enthusiasm surpassing anything that has been caused by this singular violinist.

Kirkuk declares he is in better form than ever before, and as he has not been heard since his return from his marvellous tour in Europe, he has increased his musicality and broadened his musicality.

In Europe, Australia, South America, where the Bohemian has been received with enthusiasm as the marvel of his time. His melodic tone, the incomparable ease with which he plays and his unaffected and natural manner have contributed to securing his overture.

Those who have heard this young genius lately assert that he is at the top of his art, and that critics declare he is almost without equal for anyone to excel the musical achievements of Kubek.

But the Bohemian believes that hard work is necessary for him to be at the top of his art.

STUDENTS REPRESENTING UNIVERSITY, CITY & ATHLETIC FIELD HAVE MORE PRIVILEGES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—An age limit and the length of residence at the university may be the rule which will regulate the eligibility of Rhodes scholars for Oxford athletic teams.

At present the rule is that no one qualified as a Rhodes scholar may be full Blue by representing Oxford on the playing field, after he has completed three years of study. Some Rhodes scholars have already completed two or three years in some foreign or colonial university before reaching Oxford, and in those cases Inter-Varsity teams are open to them.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A cable from London says: "The Gotha is anxious for the result that German engineers have made to the German government with the present Kaiser, according to which no additional waterways are to be made to the Panama Canal. The route favored is presumably one via the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua in the Republic of Nicaragua."

(Western Associated Press.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—The transhipment of full cars handled over more than a mile and a half has been taken up by the railway commissioners, and the companies of Canada are being asked to show why a general order should not be made authorizing the use of the same car for a distance of more than a mile when transhipment occurs by the car.

The snowfall has been from four to eight inches. The great majority of grain cars has been left at points in non-contiguous territory on both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern railroads, particularly in Western Saskatchewan.

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND IS AIDING SETTLERS

WHO LOCATE ON HIS TATE IN WESTERN CANADA ARE NOT TENANTS

(Western Associated Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Duke of Sutherland again emphasizes the fact that he has bought land in Western Canada and is not in the business of forming a large estate for his own use.

The insistence that this point is a mere liberal gesture has been denied by a member of parliament, who expressed the fear that the Duke's action is copied by others in that it is the establishment of a feudal system.

CITY HALL NOTES

This morning the commissioners received an offer of a second hand plant from the Quebec Railway Light, Heat and Power Company. The plant consists of the ironwork for eight 100-ton tubular boilers, two rotary extractors, two multitudinous condensers and other equipment. It was originally built for the Quebec Gas Company three years ago, but has fallen into disuse since the consolidation of utilities in Quebec city.

J. L. Payne, the controller of statistics, wrote from Ottawa to the effect that he had reported efforts to the government in relation to the sale of the ironwork, but hitherto without success. "I cannot understand your attitude," he wrote, "if these particular efforts for the sale are not supplied, it will be taken for granted that your city is without transportation facilities. All information has been sent to Ottawa, and Mr. Payne's letter was written.

Students of the high schools will be supplied with certificates which will entitle them to purchase street car tickets at the regular rate. The certificates will be issued by the school trustees and presented to the students when purchases are made on the cars. The older people of the non-seminary, may also be supplied with certificates.

The Canadian Institute of Engineering has granted applying for the position of consulting engineer on the heating, ventilating, plumbing and wiring work in connection with the new city hall.

A list of furnishings required for the new home was received by the commissioners, and the same was laid over for further consideration.

From the superintendent of the civil service, a list of the names of the men held and telephone services to the plant of the Great Northern Railway company, Great Northern, will be brought before the commissioners.

The commissioners will be asked to extend the time limit for the payment of the contingent gratuity proposed that $25 a year for each employee, this being the amount charged by the New Haven telephone, telegraph and tele-

MONEY MARKET IS AFFECTED BY WAR

GENERALLY BELIEVED IN LONDON, HOWEVER, THAT BANK RATE WILL NOT BE INCREASED

(Western Associated Press.)

THE war in Europe in its relation to the money market, Anglo-German relations, the effect of the agreement between France and Germany, and the movement of credits in and out of the great English money market, are causing a wide variety and the prospects of a general settlement of the war have been brought into consideration, and the latest issue of Canadian stocks, we are advised deal with a lengthy report which was received by the city commissioners from Mr. George F. Martin, Foy, secretary of the Canadian Association. The letter is written from London for the benefit of the city authority, and the Canadian Association financial adviser.

It is dated October 31, and, hence, to the starting development in the financial market, a general one, and a couple of weeks, may have just a fraction of its significance. It sheds, however, a strong light upon the position of European stocks, and the relations with Great Britain and Germany were anticipated at the time the letter was written.

The American financial adviser and the attorney which seem to have brought England and Germany to the brink of war, but had not been able to do so.

It is recommended that London should go through the remainder of the year without much fear of a rise in the bank rate. Mr. Foy's letter, however, states that he has not been able to do so.

He says that he has not been able to do so.

ABUNDANT FINANCIAL BACKING FOR CHINESE

Revolutionists Are Well Able to Carry on Their War, Says
Local Chinese Merchant—Edmonton Celestials Hope to Go Home and Enjoy Democracy

According to Pon Yin, travelling when the revolutionists have at last prevailed and set up a government after their own modernized hearts, there is room in China for oil, with a government like you have here," he said. "China is a rich country. It has copper, gold, iron, coal and other valuable minerals. These will be mine to the revolutionists. They will be able to find funds that would be available from the Chinese scattered throughout North America if they could get back to China. The well educated Chinese have been here long enough in Canada to converse most intelligently in the language of the Anglo Saxon and I think they are well able to carry on their war. It stands for the Chinese also a deep interest in the problems confronting his fellow countrymen in the Orient and he is sympathetic with the cause of the revolutionists. He is in Edmonton just now in the course of a tour of Kwang Lee Yuen and I expect to go to the Orient in the near future. Pon Yin and Prince Albert as well as in Edmonton.

To a representative of the Capital yesterday, Pon Yin said that the independent warehouse, of his company on Rice street Pon Yin granted interview and this interview was witnessed by a number of other revolutionists of various occupations and ages, who sat on tea boxes and old stools around a little coal stove and smoked cigarettes. They were not taking draws of some kind of liquid out of a tea pot that sat in the corner by the door. To the representative of the Capital, Pon Yin said a number of the forces that are operating on the mind of the people who always have been thought of as "steeped in the ways of the West" and ignorant of the tactics of the revolution and cordially hated Manchus.

Pon Yin said that the leaders of the revolutionists are all young men who have been born and brought up in the West. They took back to China with them from England and America independent ideas of democracy and freedom and the rights of man. The people, they said, for freedom but the representatives of the ruling dynasty easily explained to them that the Celestial Empire had been existing for thousands of years and that they had been ruling for at least two or three hundred years and asked them seriously what they wanted a change in the empire order for. Pon Yin said that there was only one way there was no hope of a peaceful passing away of the aged grievances that the Young Chinese rose up in arms to avert these. The revolutionists said that they had been fighting for the rights of the people that are being fought in China to the battles for liberty and liberal education. Pon Yin explained that the Chinese people are not as ignorant as the church, because the rulers of all the Chinese people some four hundred years ago after a war that lasted for a period of seven years had sent thousands of thousands of soldiers met their death on the fields of battle throughout the length and breadth of the Celestial Empire.

Pon Yin expressed the belief that many Chinese who are now making a living in tanneries, hair joints and tea shops in cities all over the face of the civilized world will return to their home land with sons of unmitigated

Since 1910 the retail grocery stores in Edmonton have now in competition with the large department stores and the large chain stores, the Illinois State Peddler of Women's Goods, Special Trains arrived last evening and early this morning with large numbers of well educated Chinese peddlers who have been here long enough in Canada to converse most intelligently in the language of the Anglo Saxon and I think they are well able to carry on their war. It stands for the Chinese also a deep interest in the problems confronting his fellow countrymen in the Orient and he is sympathetic with the cause of the revolutionists. He is in Edmonton just now in the course of a tour of Kwang Lee Yuen and I expect to go to the Orient in the near future. Pon Yin and Prince Albert as well as in Edmonton.

To a representative of the Capital yesterday Pon Yin said that the independent warehouse, of his company on Rice street Pon Yin granted interview and this interview was witnessed by a number of the forces that are operating on the mind of the people who always have been thought of as "steeped in the ways of the West" and ignorant of the tactics of the revolution and cordially hated Manchus.

Pon Yin said that the leaders of the revolutionists are all young men who have been born and brought up in the West. They took back to China with them from England and America independent ideas of democracy and freedom and the rights of man. The people, they said, for freedom but the representatives of the ruling dynasty easily explained to them that the Celestial Empire had been existing for thousands of years and that they had been ruling for at least two or three hundred years and asked them seriously what they wanted a change in the empire order for.

Pon Yin said that there was only one way there was no hope of a peaceful passing away of the aged grievances that the Young Chinese rose up in arms to avert these. The revolutionists said that they had been fighting for the rights of the people that are being fought in China to the battles for liberty and liberal education. Pon Yin explained that the Chinese people are not as ignorant as the church, because the rulers of all the Chinese people some four hundred years ago after a war that lasted for a period of seven years had sent thousands of thousands of soldiers met their death on the fields of battle throughout the length and breadth of the Celestial Empire.

Pon Yin expressed the belief that many Chinese who are now making a living in tanneries, hair joints and tea shops in cities all over the face of the civilized world will return to their home land with sons of unmitigated low the C. N. R. to build it. The C. N. R. have identified their willingness to go ahead with construction, but are prevented from doing so by a ten-year agreement which gives the older company the right of first option on the south side of McKersie Avenue. It seems that the G. T. P. has refused to go on with the work until this agreement is concluded and ratified by their agents and management, the whole salesmen are forced to wait for their trackage facilities.

The question of the construction of the spur was brought before the railway commission at their last sitting here, but the hearing was adjourned and will be brought before the commission again on October 1. The G. T. P. officials say there has been a standstill in the work to bring the spur line into existence. The two large companies are unanimous in the opinion that the matter is one that could be settled on short notice, and that the G. T. P. will give in to the C. N. R. officials that it is up to the other company to make a move. They are utilizing the boycott to bring the G. T. P. to a realization of their

NATIONAL COMMISSION MEETS.

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—Major league baseball owners and players will be particularly interested in the meeting of the National Commission which began here today and will probably continue over to Thursday of this week. The most important point to come before the baseball supreme court, consisting of President Hermann of Cincinnati, chief of the National League, and the presidents of the American and National Leagues respectively, is the recent ticket scandal in connection with the world's series games.

Football Worse Than Aviation

Dr. Eliot Takes a Rap at the American College Game

New York, Nov. 14.—Princeton is better and aviation is the only sport worse than football, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, former rector to the reporters, as the president emeritus of Harvard university said today for a trip around the country.

Dr. Eliot is sailing on a peace mission as representative of the Carnegie Endowment, the organization and aims of which he is to explain to Asiatic countries. The son of a naval officer, touched upon when one of his interviewers asked Dr. Eliot what he thought of Harvard's defeat by Princeton last Saturday.

"I do not much interest in football," he replied. "It is too dangerous for professional players and college men can't play it more than a year. That is liable to too many injuries for life."

"It's different from baseball and it's worse than tennis. Tennis is the game that can be played with chances of being maimed for life as the man on the gridiron."

"There is nothing to your mind worth the risk?" asked a reporter.

"You aviation. That's demoralizing to the spectators. They don't go to see the aeronaut in flight, but with the anticipation of seeing him fall and punishment by killed."

CONNIE MACK OPPPOSES NEW BASEBALL RULES

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—The resolutions drafted by Gary Herrmann, chairman of the national baseball committee, which it is hoped will prevent players from writing for newspapers and prevent them from appearing on the stage, has aroused considerable discussion. Connie Mack is not in favor of the measure.
